

The Missing Necklace

Last week, Ben and Betty went to a country park for a walk together. When they were leaving, suddenly, Betty said, “Oh no! My necklace is gone!” She panicked and started searching for it. Ben went to help her.

Then, they went to the park office, where they saw a thin man with curly hair. Betty asked, “Have you seen my silver necklace?” The man shook his head. Betty left the office with Ben, feeling desperate and worried.

Ben and Betty searched outside. As Betty was distracted by her own thoughts flooding her head, Ben saw a woman in a spotted dress. She was holding something in her hand, and it looked like she was trying to look for someone in the park. Ben walked towards her and asked, “Did you see a silver necklace?” “I just found a necklace near the bench. Is this yours?” Ben thanked the woman and grabbed the necklace and gave it to Betty.

Finally, Betty’s eyes widened in shock. She thanked the woman again. Ben and Betty went back home gratefully.