

Ben and Betty went to the park last week. She lost her necklace. She felt sad. She wanted to find it. Ben helped her search everywhere to find the necklace.

Then, they went to the park office. They saw a park officer. He was tall. He had curly hair and thin. He was in a blue uniform. He couldn't find the necklace. They felt disappointed.

After that, they went back to the park and looked for the necklace again. They looked everywhere. Ben saw a woman in a spotted dress. 'She has something in her hand!' he said.

Then, they walked to the woman. 'Excuse me. Can you see the silver necklace with a heart pendant on it?' asked Betty. 'Here you are. I found it under the bench,' answered the woman. Finally, Betty thanked the woman. She felt happy.
